

The Office of Counsel to the Inspector General (OCIG), Office of Inspector General (OIG), U.S. Department of Health & Human Services (HHS), is seeking experienced attorneys in the following areas:

Advice Branch

Personnel law/employment discrimination: Attorneys to provide legal counsel and representation to the Office of Inspector General, HHS, primarily in the area of Federal personnel law and employment discrimination. The attorney will also be responsible for providing legal advice relating to internal investigations of Department employees. The attorney will have the opportunity to provide advice and representation on an array of unique legal issues that arise in the representation of a Federal enforcement agency. In carrying out these responsibilities, the attorney will provide day-to-day legal advice to managers in the investigative, auditing and evaluation fields, and to criminal investigators conducting internal investigations. The position also offers the opportunity to handle administrative litigation in a variety of forums.

Audits and Evaluations: Attorneys to focus on preparing formal legal opinions, and providing day-to-day advice to evaluation and audit components on a wide array of legal issues relating to programs and operations of the Department of Health and Human Services. Candidates should have knowledge of either: (a) Inspector General Act and audit and inspection process; or (b) legal requirements of HHS programs, including Medicare and Medicaid financing, National Institutes of Health and other public health programs, and children, families and aging programs, such as foster care and head start.
